“ So many fond memories!! I just took about 45 minutes to write some of them down, but I hit the wrong button and lost it all. I'll try to rewrite them.

As an older cousin My first memories of Cheri are as a very cute toddler. There was a bit of jealousy on my part as everyone wanted to fuss over her and carry her. She liked to pick at a patch on our green couch (in the farmhouse house on Route 16). As a child, At our farm in Toboso she tried her best to keep up with her older cousins. I still picture her running behind the wagon to catch up. I loved being able to visit my younger cousins at the many places to where they were transferred. It was an adventure to visit and watch and play with them.

Later when Cheri and her family lived in Nashport, she had a pony she loved that frequently would find a way out of the fence leading our horses out as well. I remember racing though town to try and catch them before any accidents happened. Cheri and I sometimes would walk meeting half Way between our homes just to hang out. We including Becky would walk and explore the woods around Nashport. We were able to do much talking as well on those forays.

One season her mom gave us the task of cleaning her grandmother's house. It wasn't one of Cheri's strongest assets. She had an amazing ability as a creative cook. She could make strange ingredients taste good.

As an adult Cheri, was an excellent caregiver for the elderly. She was thoughtful of others even when she broke both ankles, she hobbled to purchase and package some special butter to send to her aunt and uncle in Texas.

When I think of Cheri I see her as a younger sister. She would listen to advice, but didn't mean she woul follow it. We were close as cousins especially in our growing up years.

Cheri, I miss you and look forward to seeing you in eternity!
